

Anglo-Dakota Families Select Bibliography

Linden Hills History Study Group

January 22, 2024

The following is a list of articles in Minnesota History I have published about my research on Anglo-Dakota families in 19th Century Minnesota. Minnesota Historical Society Press sells back issues of Minnesota History for $5.00 from their website or you can download pdf versions of articles from back issues for free: go to the Minnesota Historical Society main web site, choose "Explore" from the menu at the top and then choose Minnesota History Magazine (or for a book choose MHS Press.)

The book Daybreak Woman: An Anglo-Dakota Life is available via the Minnesota Historical Society Press and on Amazon. I have a limited number of books available for purchase this evening for cash, check or via Pay Pal to jlcarroll@stkate.edu.

- "Naginowenah, Lucy Prescott and the Cereal Wizard: Cultural Identity Across Three Generations of an Anglo-Dakota Family," Minnesota History (Summer 2012)
- "This Higgeldy-Piggeldy Assembly: An Anglo-Dakota Family in Early Minnesota," Minnesota History (Summer 2007)
- "'Who is Jane Lamont?': Anglo-Dakota Daughters in Early Minnesota," Minnesota History (Spring 2005)

If you are interested in other aspects of Native American history in 19th century Minnesota:

- "Dams and Damages: the United States, the Ojibway and the Mississippi Headwaters Reservoirs," Minnesota History (Spring 1990)
- "Native Americans and Criminal Justice on the Minnesota Frontier," Minnesota History (Summer 1996)
